Sera Koulabdara

UNITED STATES

Member, Global Leadership Council
Idaho Museum of International Diaspora

Sera Koulabdara serves as Executive Director of Legacies of War, the only international U.S.-based advocacy and educational organization working to address the impacts of the American Secret War in Laos and conflict in its neighboring countries of Cambodia and Vietnam during the Vietnam War-era, including the removal of unexploded ordnance (UXO) and victims/survivor assistance.

Under Sera's leadership, US funding for UXO clearance in Laos reached $45M - the highest level in history and the Legacies of War Recognition and UXO Removal Act was introduced by Senator Baldwin (D-WI) and Senator Moran (R-KS). If approved, this historic bill authorizes landmark funding of $500M over 5 yrs divided among Laos, Cambodia and Vietnam. Legacies of War also received the inaugural Humanitarian Award of 2022 given by the Lao PDR for its successful advocacy efforts in securing funds for bomb removal and victims assistance.

Sera is a proud Buckeye and received her undergraduate degree from THE Ohio State University. She serves as a member of the Idaho Museum of International Diaspora's Global Leadership Council.

Palina Louangketh, DSL MHS
UNITED STATES

Member, Global Leadership Council
Idaho Museum of International Diaspora

Dr. Louangketh's family refugee journey inspired her vision in developing the Idaho Museum of International Diaspora (IMID) to honor the human experience of survival and renewal – an innovative approach that will foster a community of relationships connected by cultures. In addition to her role as Executive Director of the IMID, she also serves as a member of its Global Leadership Council.

She is also a seasoned health care and public health leader with over 25 years of experience in strategic leadership, project management, change management, and quality improvement. She holds a Doctor of Strategic Leadership (DSL) degree from the School of Business and Leadership at Regent University with a concentration in Strategic Foresight. An alumna of Boise State University, she completed both her Bachelor of Science and Master of Health Science. Committed to her Bronco roots, she teaches in the College of Health Sciences, University Foundations Program, and Honors College at Boise State University. Additionally, she designed three courses aligned to the IMID's Global Diaspora Curriculum and teaches as a Professor of Multicultural Studies.
